

Are you caring for someone with memory loss?

We would like to hear from you!

The University of Washington School of Nursing is studying a new activity program for people with memory loss to see whether it improves quality of life for people with memory loss and their caregivers.

We are looking for people who live in areas where the activity program is not available.

What will happen if you participate in the study?

- You and the person you care for would be interviewed in your home 3 times over 18 months. Each interview lasts less than 1 hour.
- You would make an important contribution to research about services for people with memory loss & their caregivers.
- After you complete all three interviews, you would get a $25 gift card to thank you for your time.
